Animations

The animation group worked on material they prepared using 'I can Animate' which they downloaded.

The group experimented with the software and began by making scripts, which they recorded as audio on the computer with 'Audacity'. Mug Bag was a first attempt at putting together an animation using objects, which talk.

The group then explored ideas about the city of tomorrow and considered different perspectives on simple things using a digital still camera. Once again audio files were recorded and then these were added to animations and still images using iMovie.
